

share our passion

There are many innovative ways in which our organisations can work together, and all offer mutual benefits. Some of these opportunities are listed below.

- Become a Corporate Partner and enjoy special access to the many benefits of our facilities.
- Set up a Workplace Giving Program – where employees donate directly from their salary and receive an immediate tax deduction.
- Set up a Shareholder or Customer Giving Program.
- Organise a fundraising program to support our conservation projects.
- Provide pro bono support by donating goods or services.
- Participate in corporate volunteering – provide your employees with time to volunteer and contribute to our work first-hand.
- Choose the Great Ocean Ecolodge for your next holiday or corporate function – a perfect venue for management retreats or hosting special clients.
- Employees receive special rates and are welcome to join select conservation projects or are rewarded with special vouchers to spend at the Ecolodge.

All our partners and sponsors are warmly acknowledged via our website and newsletters.

what we do

Research

The Conservation Ecology Centre, Cape Otway is an independent, not-for-profit ecological research, conservation and wildlife rehabilitation centre dedicated to protecting and understanding Australian ecosystems.

Based in the beautiful Great Ocean Road region (approximately 3.5 hours from Melbourne), the Centre combines research with knowledge and education to offer real solutions across landscapes and communities.

All our projects are chosen for their potential to have a broad application and to benefit wildlife and environments locally, throughout the Australian landscape and around the world.

Our Patron is the Honourable Steve Bracks AC, a committed supporter of Australia’s wildlife and the Conservation Ecology Centre.

Our Social Enterprise – the Great Ocean Ecolodge

We also manage the award-winning Great Ocean Ecolodge – a social enterprise that distributes all of its profits back into conservation projects that protect Australian ecosystems.

become a partner

The Conservation Ecology Centre relies on the generous support of our research partners, corporate partners, community groups and volunteers.

A partnership with the Conservation Ecology Centre offers meaningful experiences for everyone in your organisation and opportunities to share in working towards a better future for Australia’s unique wildlife.

We know that every organisation is different, which is why we will work with you to develop a suitable and rewarding partnership. We can tailor half-day, full-day or four-day experiences for your organisation. Shorter day-trip experiences involve hands-on conservation tasks and activities to re-engage with nature for up to 20 participants. Longer stays will see up to 10 participants accommodated at the beautiful Great Ocean Ecolodge and offered opportunities to train and participate in our conservation research projects for iconic and endangered wildlife.

Our conservation tasks include:

- wildlife population and habitat surveys
- telemetry tracking
- behavioural studies of individual animals
- habitat restoration
- working with endangered species detection dogs
- caring for resident wildlife in our sanctuary and wildlife shelter

Participants also have the opportunity to extend their experience, staying at the award-winning Great Ocean Ecolodge.
